Love your local farmers’ markets

Never fret the fall season. There is still plenty of time to play outside, harvest from the earth and cook in the kitchen or over a campfire! The reality is that we are extremely fortunate to live here, and we should be celebrating our easy climate every day, every month, every year. But if, for some reason, you find our locale to lack seasonal variance, never fear. Winter squash will arrive soon enough. There are heaps of apples to bake with and stews to simmer in the months ahead—even if you rarely put on a sweater while doing it.
